

Back to <http://natunenari.net/prose.html> (click on the link)

From our book Love Changes Everything

In A Song

*I love the composition and transition of a piece, the chordal progressions
so unusual,
and yet blend so perfectly together as One,
in harmony with one another
Just like two souls coming together in singularity*

*I appreciate how a piece can move from a contemplative, tender mood
As the gentle glide of the rivers flow to a thrashing and powerful crescendo
As the crashing of the ocean's waves upon the rocks and shore
Then back again onto itself within a reflective mood
The way a ballet dancer glides so effortless
Across the floor
Or when breathing in the yoga of Oneness in a graceful flowing dance
Of love*

*The song of the soul
Fills the very essence of my being Bringing me back home,
Bringing me back to me
In rapturing bliss*

*As the music inspires me and touches my soul
In a way that is free from being anything else I have ever known*

*The silence between the notes
The harmonies, the melodies
The rhyme and the reason
The said and the unsaid
All One, all at once*

*The music and lyrics
That is just so beautifully sensuous
So awe~inspiring
That captures the essence
The poetry in motion
Of how I feel so One and so peaceful
So free and so inspired
In a song*

~